Stop Data Analysis – cost effective national best practices

"We've started collecting stop data, but what does it mean?"

Program Description

NOBLE and Lamberth Consulting have partnered to develop a low-cost, collaborative solution to enable departments of all sizes to analyze stop data using national best practices.

This program provides:

- National best practice methods that make sense to law enforcement, communities, and that have been tested and proven across the country
- Opportunities for local researchers to assist agencies and develop experience in addressing biased-based policing issues
- Statistical analysis support, method tutorials, training, and on-going support
- Practical methods for engaging officers, communities, and other stakeholders

Take a leadership position by proactively addressing the issue.
